Knowledge is Power: Are you renting?

By: Vanessa Moctezuma, Realtor, McGraw Realtors

Are you paying rent now? By paying rent you are paying a mortgage, just not yours.

Interest rates are still at a historic low, but not for long so it only makes sense to act now. Stop paying rent! The amount you are paying in rent can easily be used as your mortgage monthly payment. The first step is to contact a Real Estate agent that is experienced, loyal, committed, and passionate about their client's needs like myself. I have helped hundreds of families achieve their goals of owning their very own home.

I will connect you with the best lenders in the state. Together we will assess where you are financially and how much home you can afford. There are several programs available for First Time Homebuyers such as down payment assistance and much more.

Sellers now more than ever only want pre-approved, serious buyers in their homes, and with historically low inventory it is best to walk in having your approval letter ready to negotiate. Owning your own home is the best investment you can make. Contact me for more information.
